Location

The Kensington Court Hotel invites city explorers to experience London like never before, with modern style and an unbeatable location in a trendy Kensington neighbourhood.

This area of London has always been important as part of the capital's vibrant music scene. The Troubadour London has been one of the most exciting small music venues in town since 1954 and has hosted performances from Bob Dylan, Jimi Hendrix and Adele.

The Neighbourhood

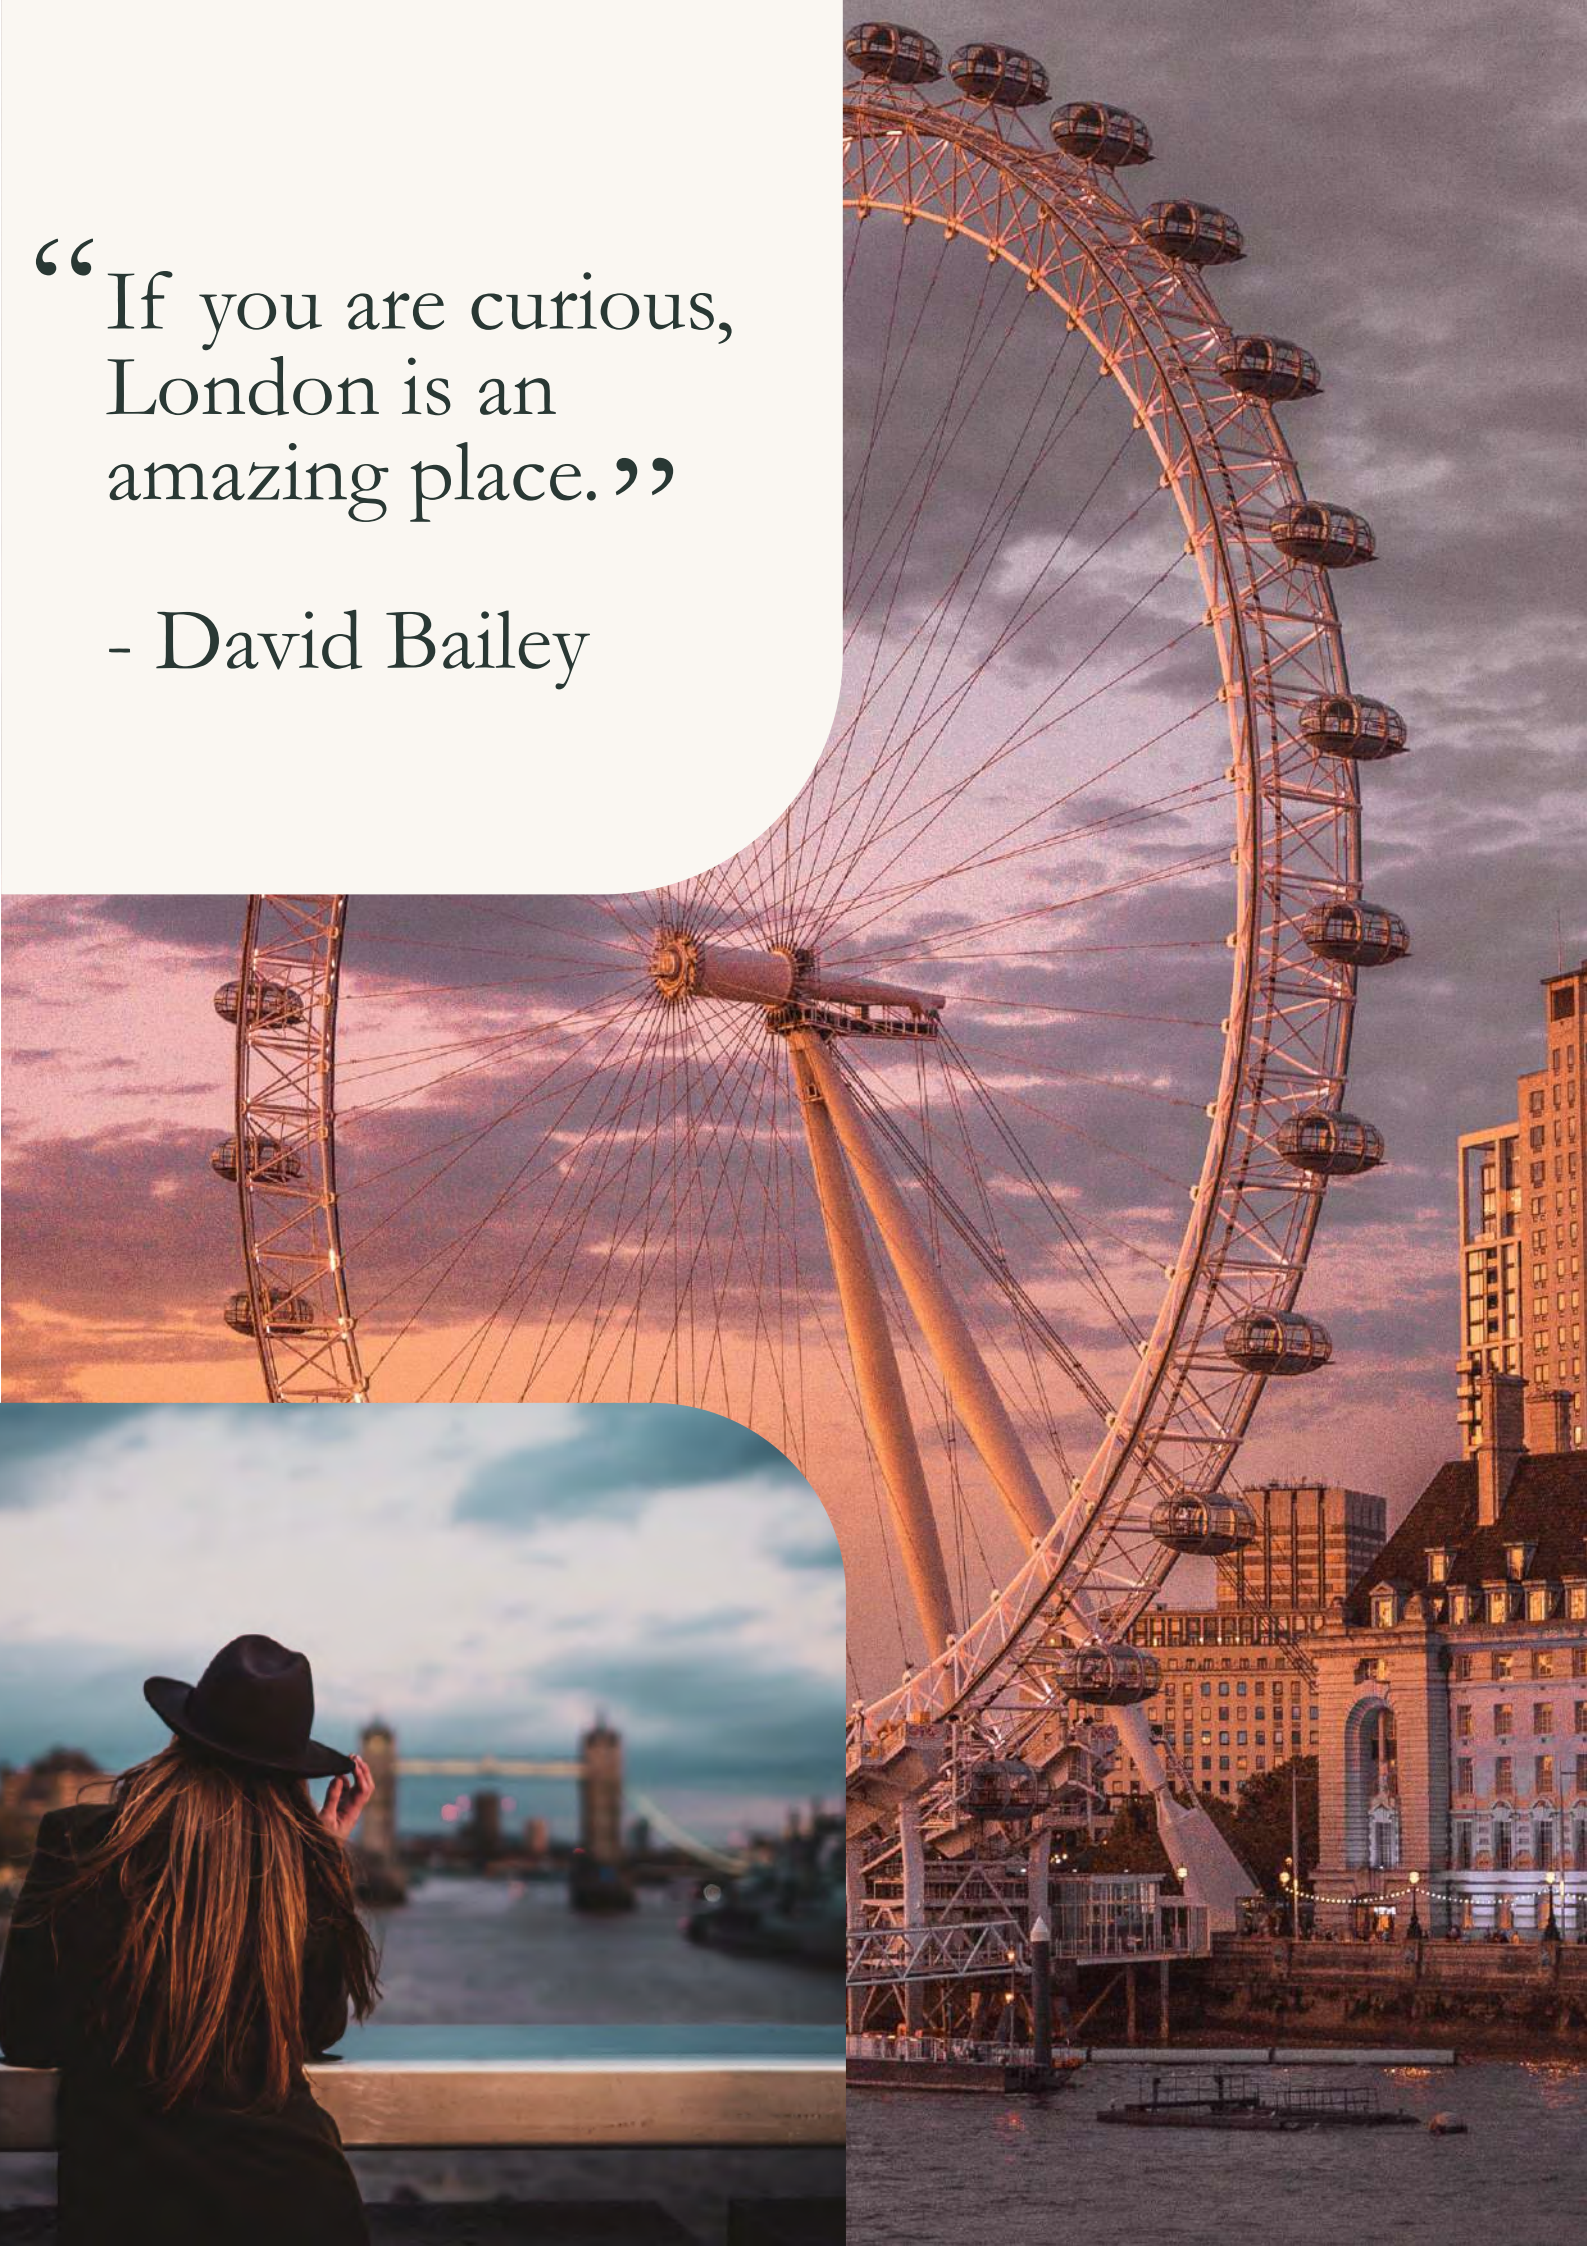

Earls Court is best known for being a popular place for visitors to stay and access the major sights located in South Kensington (Science Museum, Natural History Museum, Victoria and Albert Museum). It's in the Royal Borough of Kensington & Chelsea, where you will find impressive architecture of noble terraces/squares and also tall, red-brick Victorian homes.

Kensington Gardens forms the northern boundary of South Kensington. There is a Princess Diana Memorial Fountain and playground with a pirate ship. Other Kensington Gardens highlights include the Italian Gardens, the Serpentine Galleries and the Peter Pan statue. 13-min walk from the Kensington Court Hotel, you will find the fabulous Holland Park with its Kyoto Garden and a huge sandpit with an adventure playground.

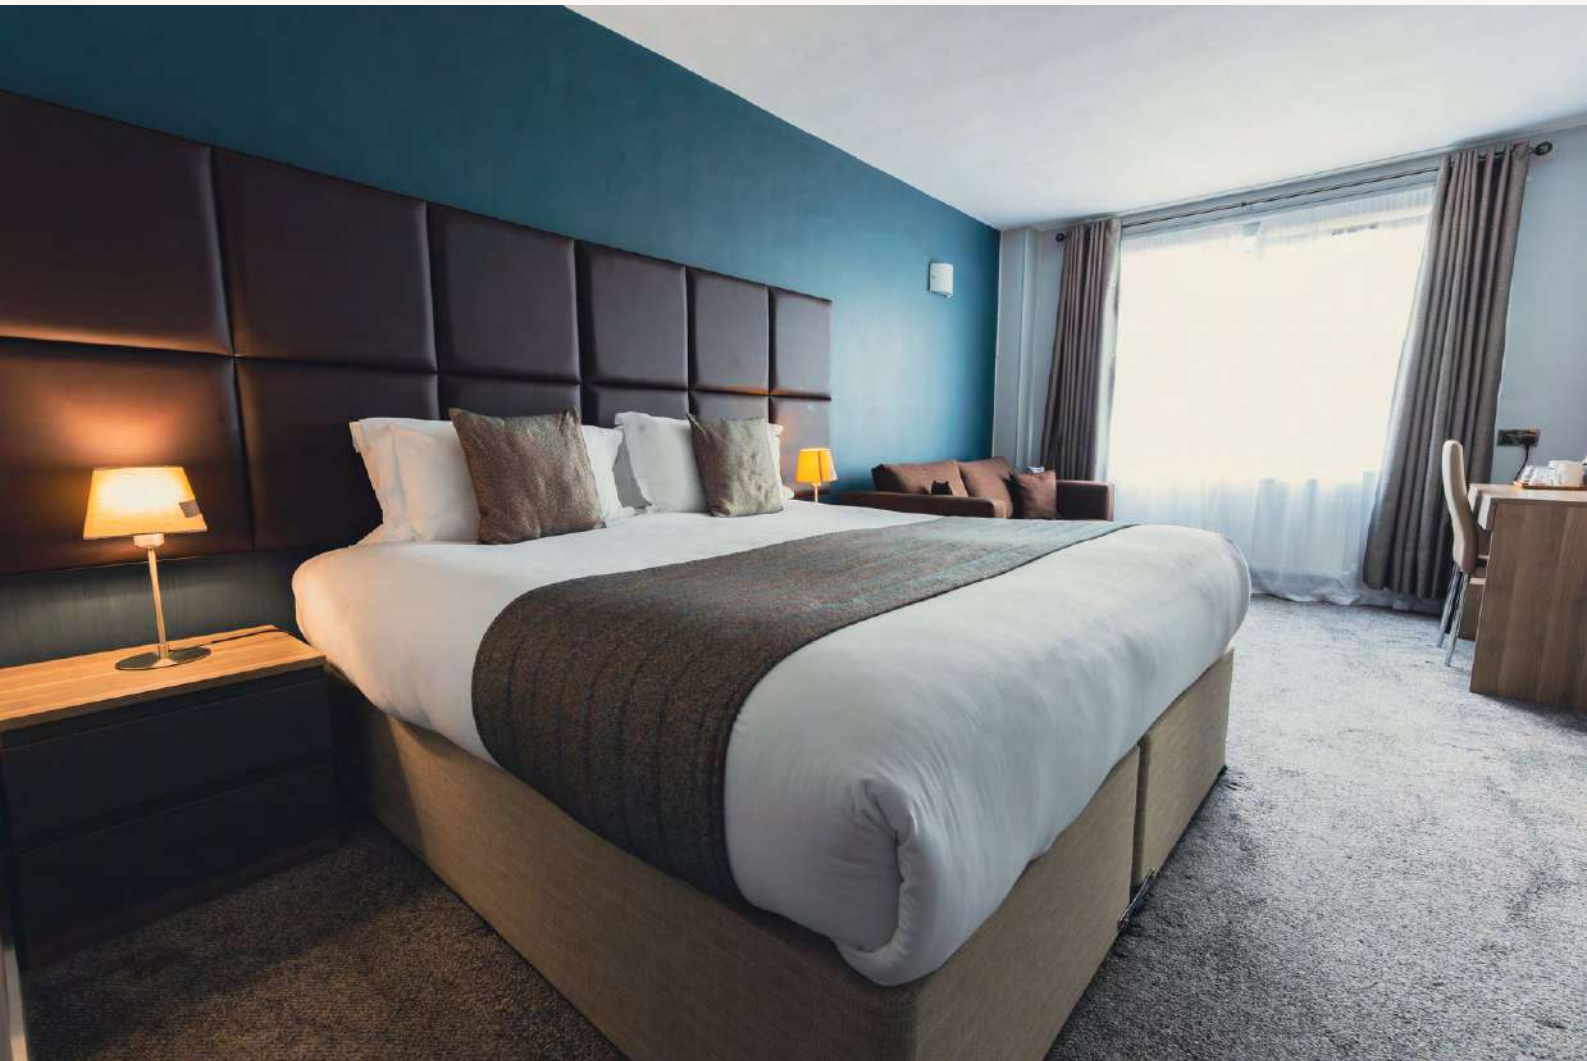

“If you are curious,
London is an amazing place.”

- David Bailey

Grzegorz - Google review

Rooms like rooms in the UK, no craziness ;) But there is a very comfortable bed, peace and quiet and close to everywhere. I recommend.

Guest - Google review

The staff at the reception are very friendly, the room service is excellent, the breakfast is good.

Rooms: Some rooms so small

Nearby activities: It's near the shops, supermarkets and cafes.

Safety: If you check out and forget some things in the room you will find it in the reception.

Food & drinks: Good
